To Whom It May Concern:

I am the Head Coach for the Carroll High School Women's Soccer Program in Dayton, Ohio. We have around 60 girls in our program, many of whom are interested in participating in college athletics. As a coaching staff, we wanted to ensure we give them all the information necessary to make informed decisions about their future. Even though we knew the basic information about college athletics, we decided to look around for someone who knew all the intricacies that we might possibly miss. We invited Thom Dartt to come and speak to our players and their families and it was the best decision we made.

Thom's knowledge of college athletic programs, specifically recruiting, was an invaluable resource for our program. He not only motivated all the girls, but he spoke with conviction about how important it is to be your own advocate. He touched on everything from academics to recruiting phone calls to sending test scores to various schools. He, without a doubt, gave our program's families information that they will all use and would not otherwise have known. I highly recommend his services and look forward to working with him again in the future. His passion for what he does and how much he enjoys the process of helping athletes find the best future they can come through with every action.

Without a doubt, Thom has helped everyone in our program become more comfortable and knowledgeable with the recruiting process and I am confident he can do the same with any to whom he speaks.
