

Hot Shots Basketball

I'm pleased to offer a reference for Thom. First I'll answer your questions. 1) Yes, I would definitely contract with him again. 2) His services have proved to be invaluable. 3) He delivered everything he said he would and more.

Thom has handled the recruiting for not only my daughter, but for several of my players over the past two years. His efforts have resulted in ALL of these players receiving many contacts from colleges and universities they would not have gotten otherwise. Each of these players signed to play somewhere at the collegiate level.

The overwhelming majority of parents (and, unfortunately high school coaches) simply do not understand the ins and outs of the college recruiting process. There are a vast number of opportunities out there to be explored, but parents typically don't know about them or where to begin. Thom thoroughly understands the process, knows how to collect and organize the information in a format useful to college coaches and how to get the information to any schools of the athlete's choosing.

Further, he can provide you and your child guidance along the way about such things as how to choose a school, how to respond to contacts by coaches, what the NCAA rules are concerning those contacts, and answer any other questions that may arise during the process.

Frankly, Thom should charge much more than he does. His cost is very small, especially when the result can be the best school for your child and scholarship money on top of that. It will be the best investment you can make.

I would highly recommend Thom to any parent who needs help with the college recruiting process and wants to leave no stone unturned in helping their child get to college on a sports scholarship.
